SHARK TANK + OVERPLAY

Designing Product Clarity Under National Spotlight

Role: Head of UX
Scope: UX strategy, team direction, design systems, product engagement
Context: Startup / high-growth / client-facing environment

OVERVIEW

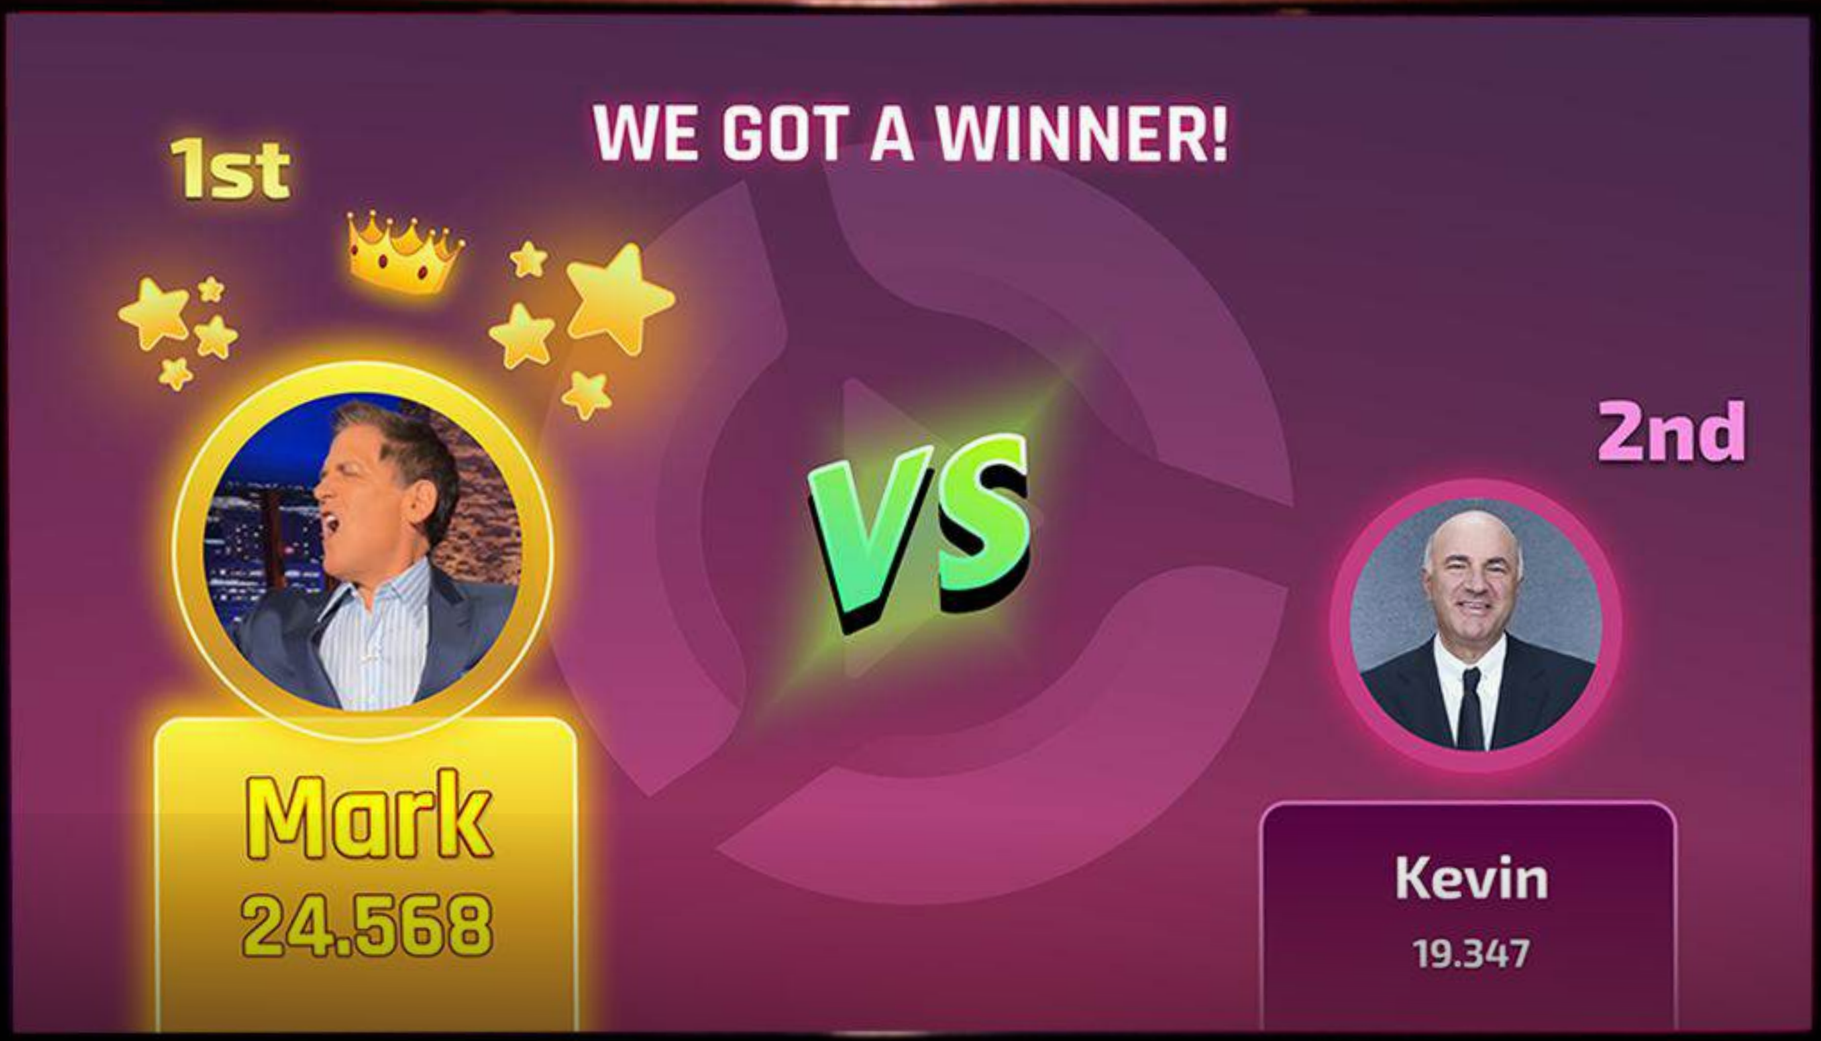

Overplay was featured on Shark Tank Season 15, putting the product in front of millions of viewers. As Head of UX and Lead Creative Director, I was responsible for translating a complex interactive gaming platform into a clear, compelling, and performant live demo for judges and viewers.

LUIS SUAREZ

THE CHALLENGE

- Time-constrained pitch environment
- Non-technical audience requiring instant clarity
- Live interaction risks under broadcast conditions
- Need for simplified demo flow without losing impact

LUIS SUAREZ

STRATEGY: SIMPLIFY, CLARIFY, PERFORM

- Crafted a narrative demo flow:
  See - Play - Compete
- Designed custom games for judges interaction
- Built camera-friendly stage leaderboard UI
- Reduced UI complexity for instant comprehension

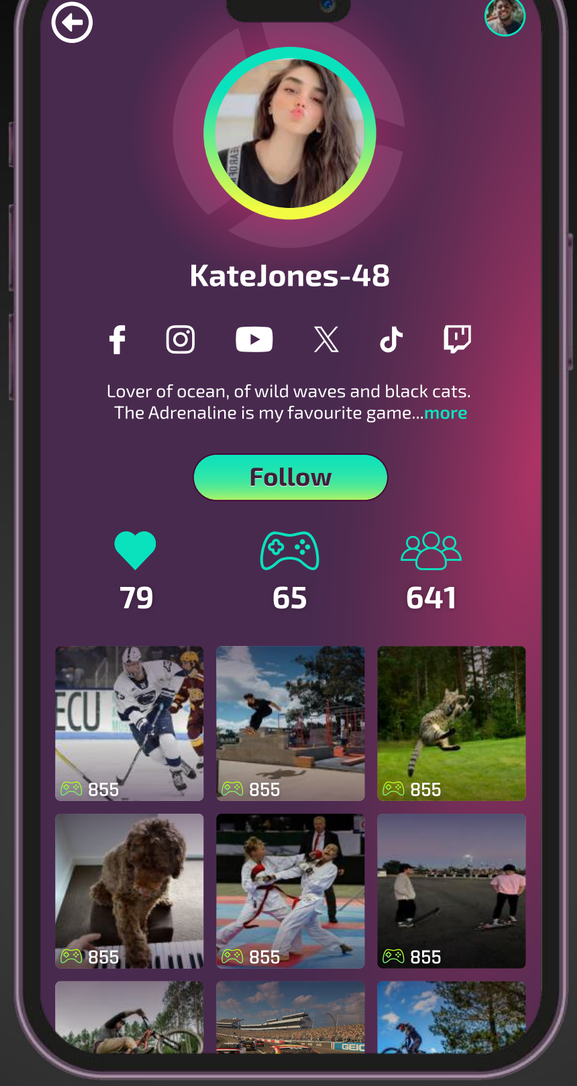

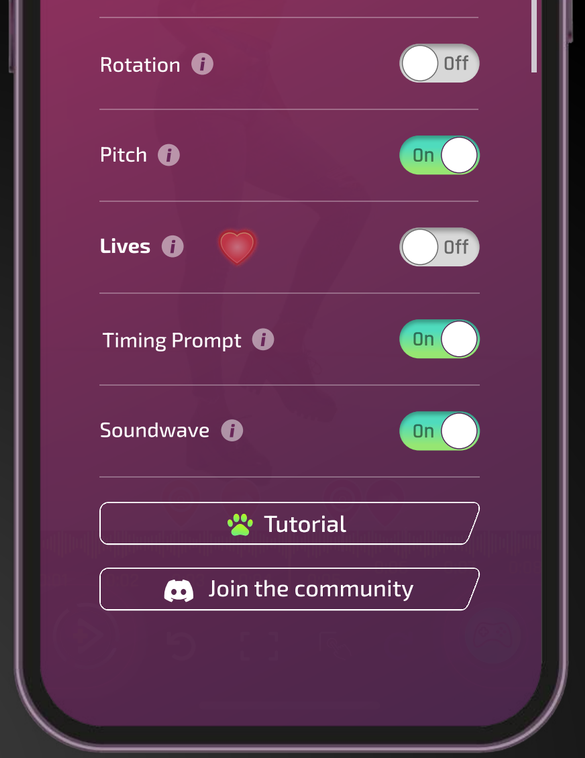

IMPACT

- Flawless live product interaction on national television
- Judges directly engaged with interactive gameplay
- Clear articulation of product value under pressure
- Expanded national brand visibility

LUIS SUAREZ

KateJones-48
Lover of ocean, of wild waves and black cats.
The Adrenaline is my favourite game...more
Follow
79
65
641
855
855
855
855
855
855

Rotation
Off
Pitch
On
Lives
Off
Timing Prompt
On Soundwave
On Tutorial
Join the community

200%
05:02.220

5. ThomasR 216,300
6. Cinthya07 197,124
7
MattBoy23
148,996
8. ChristineV 97,311
9. Marcus56 50,996

WINNER!!!
Mattboy
148,996
VS
LOSER
Bryan.M-009
98147
WIN
TY'S DIECAST TRUCK
AND $250

LUIS SUAREZ

REFLECTION

Design in high-stakes environments must prioritize clarity over complexity. On Shark Tank, the product had to perform live, communicate instantly, and support storytelling. This case demonstrates strategic UX thinking under pressure, aligning product, narrative, and execution.